★★★☆☆ Disappointed with learning curve

Chronoforms is obviously powerful and for the experienced user is probably a superb tool. I was called in to help a colleague who wasn't able to make some key features work. I had done a simple form in Chronoforms but became repeatedly frustrated trying to do more. For example, my form didn't even display until I realized I had to add an action in a not obvious place. It should have defaulted to displaying, nearly always desired. The FAQs had suggestions about how to use the Mambot and should have been updated by now. I wasted enough hours I almost gave an even lower rating.

It needs a far more comprehensive tutorial and far clearer documentation. I switched the project to Breezing Forms and found the program logic much easier to follow, the tutorials covered more of what I needed. I accomplished more in about 90 minutes on Breezing Forms than on about 5 hours puzzling out Chronoforms.

Owner's reply

Hi Dave,

You have mentioned one of the most basic stuff of Chronoforms, it may not be so clear but this is for good reasons, however:

#1- There is an "Easy wizard mode" to use, why did you try to use the advanced one if this is your first experience with the extension ?

#2- We have a "Tutorials" section on the website to browse which explains the basic stuff.

#3- You can search our huge forums (or even post a new topic and you should get an answer ASAP).

#4- You can google "Chronoforms V4 Tutorials".

#5- Search for "Chronoforms" this on YouTube!!!

#6- Or maybe contact me through the "Co
